

Here's how you'll get there

The following information is your planned flight routing, and was accurate at press time. Actual routing is based on availability. You will receive your final air itinerary approximately 21 days prior to departure. These are the international carriers we are planning to use for your transatlantic flight. Your routing, travel times, and airlines are subject to change. If you choose the reverse itinerary, you will fly first to Budapest instead of Amsterdam.

And with Vantage's buying power, you'll fly Business Class at a substantial discount off purchasing at retail fares. Ask when you make your reservation!

An Important Note About Transfers

If you have made your own flight arrangements and are therefore making your own way to the river ship, we strongly suggest you call the ship to determine its exact location before proceeding to the dock. Docking assignments for river vessels can and do change. Contact information for the ship will be provided with your final documents. It is not possible for Vantage to notify you of any sudden changes. Official embarkation time will be noted in your final documents.

If Vantage has made your flight arrangements, you will be met by a Vantage representative at the airport (where your river cruise itinerary begins) after you claim your luggage and exit the Customs area. You may have to wait for other Vantage travellers to arrive from different flights before you are transferred. However, your wait will not be longer than an hour. Depending on the time of your arrival, you may be transferred to a hospitality room until you may board the ship.
